

Full-Dress Senate Debate Ordered On McCarthy Censure

GOP Decides On Discussion Despite Delay

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Republican leadership yesterday decreed a full dress debate on moves to censure or investigate Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). Policy makers for Senate Democrats left up to individuals the question of how they shall vote.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, said he had decided to allow "a full dress debate . . . a full discussion" even though prospects are that it probably "will tie up the legislative program."

THE DEMOCRATIC Policy Committee met later and decided against making the vote on McCarthy a party issue. It said:

"It was the unanimous sense of the committee that the issue raised is a matter of conscience upon which each individual senator should vote his convictions without regard to party affiliation."

The issue will be threshed out on the floor beginning today and perhaps running through Saturday and Monday sessions.

A COMPLICATION arose yesterday with the sudden introduction by Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N. J.) of a resolution calling for a senatorial committee of three Republicans and three Democrats to investigate, and report by next Feb. 1, on "the alleged good or evil of so-called McCarthyism."

Smith's resolution which he said "popped into my mind" when he woke at 5 a. m. yesterday, would, if adopted, put off any Senate showdown on the issue until months after the November election.

He offered it as a proposed substitute for the resolution by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.). Flanders would have the Senate declare McCarthy guilty of unbecoming conduct as chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

SMITH DENIED that his call for an investigation was prompted by any desire by Senate leaders for an "out" that could be used by senators not eager to take a stand on McCarthy this close to election. At the same time, he said that if his resolution, or something like it, does not pass "every candidate up today is going to be put right on the spot in this issue."

Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, of Texas, said in announcing the Policy Committee decision not to make McCarthy a party issue that "more than one" of those present "suggested it should be."

'Joe Must Go' Move Revived

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new move to unseat Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) will be launched after the November elections, Leroy Gore, chairman of the "Joe Must Go" clubs, announced yesterday.

As outlined, this will be a far more elaborate drive than the one that failed last Spring. Not only will the "Joe Must Go" people be after signatures from Wisconsin voters, but they also will launch a nationwide campaign to persuade citizens to write their senators. The aim is to make sure that, in case Wisconsin votes to unseat McCarthy, the Senate will go along with the decision.

GORE PREDICTED he would encounter no difficulty in: (1) getting enough signatures to set up a recall election, and (2) defeating McCarthy in that election.

"The people of Wisconsin have changed their mind about McCarthy," Gore said, "and he ought to have to go to bat again."

Gore, 50-year-old editor of the Sauk, Wis., Prairie-Star, was in town yesterday to line up backing for his renewed recall campaign and also to do what he could in behalf of the move by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) to censure McCarthy.

Gore said he would be talking with a score of political leaders of both parties, but he declined to identify any of them except Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.). He added that Wiley was a personal friend of his and that he would not try to pressure Wiley into taking a stand on the recall move.

Twister Lifts Car Into Air; Occupants Unhurt

BRADFORD (AP)—A freak twister took an auto and its four occupants into the air last night but the quartet escaped with nothing more than bruises.

During a thunderstorm John Lipp, of Bradford RD1, parked his auto near the North-eastern Container Corp. where he planned to eat lunch with his wife, an employee of the concern. With him were his sons, Ben, 11, George, 6, and Joseph, 18 months.

A gust of wind picked up the machine, rolled it over four or five times and neatly deposited it atop a small steel post.

Senate Writes Opposition To Red China Into Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate spoke with one voice yesterday against the entrance of Red China into the United Nations. It voted 91-0 to write into the $3,100,000,000 foreign aid bill a reiteration by Congress of "its opposition to the seating in the United Nations of the Communist China regime as the representative of China."

The amendment also requests President Eisenhower, in the event of Red Chinese admission, to inform Congress "of the implications of this action upon the foreign policy of the United States . . . together with any recommendations which he may have with respect to the matter."

MAJORITY Leader Knowland of California was the sponsor of this "wait and see" plan, which apparently reflects administration policy. It is a far cry, however, from Knowland's original proposal that the United States withdraw from the U. N. the moment Communist China gets in, with the policy to be set by Congress beforehand.

Both Eisenhower and Dulles have advised going slow on the question of quitting the United Nations. They also have expressed confidence that Red China will be unable to obtain a seat. The issue may be raised at the U. N.

Motor Crash Investigated

STROUDSBURG State police last night were investigating a one-car accident in which a car ran off the road in Minisink Hills and struck a tree.

The accident occurred about 7 p. m. police said. Mrs. Fan Felgoe, Philadelphia, suffered injuries to her left knee and was treated at the General Hospital dispensary, police said. Her husband, Harry, was listed as the driver.

Eastland (D-Miss.), Frear (D-Del.), Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and McClellan (D-Ark.). Although not voting, they announced as in favor of the amendment.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) failed to win adoption of an amendment to require that 750 million dollars of the foreign aid funds requested for the fiscal year which began July 1 be in the form of loans rather than grants. It was defeated on a 57-33 rollcall vote.

FTC Lists Reasons For Coffee Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission yesterday attributed the sharp rise in coffee prices last winter to speculation, an increase in Brazil's export price figures, and other factors including "market imperfections."

The commission's report was the fruit of an investigation begun last January under orders of President Eisenhower. There had been widespread indignation among United States housewives when the retail price of coffee shot up to $1.18 a pound and more.

IN THE REPORT, the FTC saw prospects for lower prices in the future unless there is excessive crop damage, and provided "supply and demand are permitted freely to run their course."

Some of the conditions that led to soaring prices might be corrected it said, by FTC or judicial action but it found the remedies are mainly in the hands of Congress.

It proposed that Congress look margin requirements" and pass legislation to remedy such "market imperfections" as trading irregularities, inadequacies of basic marketing information and narrowness of the futures contract.

THE COMMISSION said a frost in Brazil last July had no significant effect upon the 1953-54 crop but did reduce the prospective 1954-55 crop. Even so, it said, the world crop will be slightly larger than in 1953-54 and it said it found "no actual current shortage in the volume of coffee moving to market which would fully explain the price increase."

U. S. Offers Food

WASHINGTON (AP)—Surplus American food for the victims of Europe's floods, including thousands of hungry behind the Iron Curtain, was offered yesterday by President Eisenhower.

Red Chinese Turn Down U. S. Protests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Red China has contemptuously turned down American protests against Communist fighter plane attacks on British and American aircraft over the South China Sea.

The Reds refused even to consider the protests.

The State Department disclosed yesterday the rejection had occurred Wednesday at Peiping. It announced that the matter "will not be permitted to rest there" but did not say what new steps might be taken.

Two salient points emerged from the situation:

ONE—The rejection means that the Chinese Communists are refusing to promise this country to punish those persons responsible for the China Sea attacks, or to give assurances there won't be more such incidents.

TWO—The State Department disclosed that Britain has sent a formal commendation for the rescue efforts of the U. S. Navy in connection with the shootings. American officials have viewed the Communist tactics, of being contemptuous toward America, as an effort to drive a wedge between them.

One possible course of new American action could be in the United Nations. There, the United States might use Red China's conduct in the whole affair as further and dramatic proof of the American argument that Communist China is unfit to be given a membership in the U. N.

THE LATEST turn of events appeared to bear out President Eisenhower's view at a news conference Wednesday that the Chinese Reds are trying to play the clashes in such a way as to divide the United States and Britain.

For, while Peiping refused to accept the American protests, it has apologized promptly to Britain for the destruction of the British plane involved.

The U. S. protested against what it called the "barbarous and lawless attack" of Chinese Communist fighters against an unarmed British airliner 30 miles south of Hainan Island. Three American citizens were lost.

RED CHINA, in reply, said this was a matter between the British and Chinese governments and was no concern of the United States.

American rescue planes shot down two Red fighters which fired on them during rescue operations. The U. S. protested the "unprovoked and wanton" attack which, it said, occurred over international waters.

Peiping's version said the clash was over Communist territory of Hainan; thus its rejection of the protest.

'Divide-Conquer Literature' Being Mailed To Monroe Counties By Communist Party

By Leonard Randolph

AMERICAN citizens who fight the theories of Communism often have a hard time following the shifting fallacies of the party line.

Since it is necessary to know conclusively what the party is preaching, U. S. experts have frequently been at a loss lately, somewhat like an unseasoned pinch-hitter in the middle of a squeeze play.

This week—much to her amazement—a Monroe County woman had a chance to look over the current Communist party line.

THE OPPORTUNITY came when she opened her daily mail. In one of the envelopes, personally addressed to the woman, was a letter from the Communist Party of Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware.

There was also a pamphlet titled "The American Way to Jobs, Peace, Democracy."

The letter indicated that the real, inside dope was right there. As usual, the party had failed to consider the intelligence of the reader.

Dial Telephone Service One Of Improvements Promised By Commonwealth Company

THE SAYLORSBURG-PORTLAND-BANGOR area will get dial telephones if Public Utility Commission approves sale of Community Telephone Co. to another firm.

That was one statement which emerged from yesterday's PUC hearing on the application by Commonwealth Telephone Co., Dallas, Pa., to buy the Community firm.

Commonwealth told PUC it planned a $4 million improvement program. The statement was made by Commonwealth's general manager, H. H. Butler. The purchase price for the Community firm was listed as a million and a quarter.

"We plan immediately to start a program which will rehabilitate service in the present territory of Pennsylvania Community and which will ultimately result in providing automatic dial service throughout the territory," he said.

Butler made the statement at a Public Utility Commission hearing on Commonwealth's proposal to buy Pennsylvania Community for 1 1/2 million dollars.

The Pennsylvania Community firm now provides magneto or common battery manual telephone service to 11,600 subscribers in Lancaster, Chester, Dauphin, Schuylkill, Monroe and Northampton counties.

Wind Fells Tree, Disrupts Phone And Power Service As Rain Dampens Part Of County

WIND SPLIT A TREE in half on the Neola road near Sciota last night about 6. The tree fell across the road, tore down telephone lines and disrupted power service.

A Community Telephone Co. service official said phone service was back in order by 9 p. m. in the area. The official said the falling tree hit a 4600-volt line.

The road—which runs between Millside on Route 209 and Neola Church—was blocked when the tree fell. At 9 p. m. workmen from the power company, Metropolitan Edison, had cleared the road sufficiently to make room for one-way traffic, the phone repairman said.

THE METROPOLITAN Edison power lines were not broken. A spokesman for the telephone company said workmen were planning to call highway department workers to help clear the road last night.

It was the only incident of wind damage reported last night in Monroe County. The wind apparently accompanied a fleeting Summer rainstorm which hit some areas of the county, including the Stroudsburgs.

In Stroudsburg weather observer Pierre Lake reported 0.8 of an inch of rain fell during the shower.

NO RAIN was reported in some sections of the county. Mount Pocono had "barely a sprinkle" at 6 p. m., same time, the rain fell in Stroudsburg.

High temperature for the day in Stroudsburg was 96 degrees, Lake said. The reading at 8 a. m. was 65 and it was 73 at 7:30 p. m.

Temperatures at the weather station at High Point, Mount Pocono, hit a high of 86.6 degrees at 1:30 p. m. Humidity at that time was 40 percent.

LOW FOR the 24-hour period there was 59 degrees at 6 a. m. yesterday. Light winds were recorded throughout the day, according to observer Harry Greene at the High Point station.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said as much as 3/4 of an inch fell in some central Pennsylvania counties but the overall drought situation was changed little.

Scattered thunderstorms caused damage in the Pittsburgh area after bringing some relief from near 90 degree temperatures.

Philadelphia sweltered under a scorching sun which ran the mercury up to a high of 93. No rain fell in that area.

Wide Variety Of Benefits Are Provided

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate last night passed the Eisenhower administration's big tax revision bill carrying a wide variety of benefits for many individuals and corporations.

The vote was 61-26. The measure, a compromise version already passed by the House, now goes to President Eisenhower. The President has called it the cornerstone of his 1954 legislative program.

THE MEASURE, the first complete overhaul of the tax laws in 75 years, goes to the White House with most of the key provisions in exactly the form that Eisenhower recommended in January.

It represents the second major item on his legislative priority list to go to the President on successive days. Wednesday Congress sent him the general housing bill. In this measure, however, the President's public housing features were cut far below what he had asked.

The tax bill cuts government revenues an estimated $1,363,000,000 in the first year. The revenue loss will be greater in future years.

SENATE DEMOCRATS centered their attack on a provision giving a tax cut to stockholders on their dividend income.

This had been considerably watered down from the original Eisenhower request. But opponents still sought unsuccessfully to defeat the compromise bill so that it would have to go back to another conference with the House.

Final enactment of the bill completes a 7 1/2-billion-dollar 1954 tax reduction program. This is the biggest one-year cut in history.

WHILE ALTERING various provisions of tax law, the bill makes no general changes in tax rates now in effect. The rates which it reenacts are expected to bring in slightly more than 60 billion dollars to run the government in the next year. That includes $30,300,000,000 in individual income taxes, $20,300,000,000 in corporation taxes, $9,200,000,000 in excise taxes, and one billion from estate and gift levies.

MOST OF THE tax cuts in the bill are effective as of last Jan. 1, and thus could be reflected in returns filed next year.

For individuals, the biggest reductions would go to stockholders, families with heavy medical expenses, mothers who must work to support their children, retired persons, parents of college-age children who work, and farmers with large soil conservation expenses.

Water Shortage Creates State Of Emergency

YORK (AP)—Mayor Howard E. Eyster yesterday declared a state of emergency exists in the city as the result of a water shortage caused by a prolonged dry spell in the area.

Following a conference with Charles Kerr, president of the privately owned York Water Co., Eyster directed the York police department to warn all persons seen wasting water to conserve supplies.

Showers Fall In Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG (AP)—The weatherman came through with five separate showers and a severe thunderstorm here yesterday to maintain the tradition that it always rains on July 29.

The precipitation not only kept the tradition alive but made farmers in the area happy.

Tax Filing Date Is Changed From March To April

WASHINGTON (AP)—March 15—traditional filing date for personal income tax returns for 40 years—is scrapped as the deadline under a provision of the tax revision bill sent to President Eisenhower last night.

The new date is April 15, effective next year.

It has been March 15 since the modern-day income tax law first went on the books in 1913.

Reds Mail Literature To Countians

catch-phrases in the body of the tract—read like manic mountains and depressed valleys of lines on the fever chart of American opinion today.

What is the current Communist aim? Is it to recruit membership into the party? Or is it the aim of the party to create suspicion, divide, disorganize and, eventually, cause the mass of American democracy to disintegrate?

Reading the present tract it becomes increasingly apparent, page by page, that few—if any—Americans with common sense would be sucked into membership in the party. The arguments are common—but they are arguments which have been used by reliable anti-Communists who are also anti-fascist for years.

ONE PRIMARY, evident purpose is inherent in the tract's material: to make all criticism, no matter how sincere, honest and constructive, of the status quo, seem subversive by comparison.

This is apparent in the tract's "introduction," when the "draft" says:

"Our country and its people rapidly are approaching a crisis."

"The storm clouds of a major economic depression are nearly upon us. Our nation's foreign policy has led us into a blind alley. Our traditional liberties are vanishing, being replaced with the ugly menace of McCarthyism."

"THE AMERICAN people face the danger that everything they believe in, everything they want this great land to be, is being turned into its opposite."

"At a time of great national fear and anxiety the Communist Party submits this Program as an appeal to reason, an appeal to the common sense of our fellow Americans. The crisis of our nation cannot be resolved by any one group alone. Therefore, we offer this Program for the consideration of the workingclass and all Americans who are concerned with the welfare of our country."

The implication is clear. If you have lost your job, if you do not like the foreign policy of the Eisenhower administration, if you feel Truman and Acheson foreign policy was blind and blundering, if you feel personal liberties are being eaten away,

IF ANY OF ALL of these things are true for you—the tract wants you to believe—there is but one answer.

And this brings us to the greatest fallacy in the current—or any—Communist Party "line."

Like most alien ideologies the tenets of Marxism fail to recognize one theory basic to the very roots of American democratic philosophy: the right to disagree peacefully with things as they are.

In some countries—where the street-crier and the soapbox orator are within an inch of the jail door each time their mouths open—Communism's fatalistic views may win some converts.

IN AMERICA—where every man has the right to hate McCarthyism, Fascism, totalitarianism and all other isms and the continuing right to say so—the plea should win little sympathy.

An analysis of the complete tract will be printed in a subsequent edition of The Daily Record. This analysis will be given in the belief that every man, woman and child in America and Monroe County should know what the current Communist approach is.

Although it is better written than in the past, the line's basic purpose remains the same: divide, confuse, decay and conquer by default.

DR. DANIEL A. POLING, president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, pins a convention badge on the lapel of President Eisenhower in Washington as the Chief Executive prepared to address the gathering. The President called for a "great moral crusade" by the free peoples of the world to achieve permanent peace, which he emphasized can never be attained by military might alone.

Five-Yolk Eggs Occur Rarely

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The chances of a five-yolk egg are one in a billion.

Alfred McNamee Jr., said his firm handled about a billion eggs in 38 years and found only one with five yolks. Double yolks are common, he said, but triple yolks showed up only once in each 100,000 eggs. And in a billion eggs there were just three four-yolkers—and the one five-yolker.

Emergency Campaign Announced

THE NATIONAL Polio Foundation is in a $20 million jam, it said last night.

The National Foundation's patient care and polio prevention programs are threatened, said President Basil O'Connor, because of the dry-up of funds.

The $20 million is needed to pay the high cost of continuing care of 67,000 patients stricken in earlier years—and unknown numbers of victims of the current summer outbreaks.

O'Connor said the March of Dimes last January was the most successful in polio history. Americans gave more than they ever had to stem the increasing polio flood-tide.

In Monroe County a record drive exceeded the high quota set. Yet nationally, the sum collected fell far short of the carefully budgeted needs for 1954, O'Connor said.

THE NATIONAL foundation president urged contributions in an "emergency, all-out appeal to the public."

"Since there is no basis in fact for a 1-A classification which was finally given defendant, the order to report for induction was void."

"The order to report for induction being void, defendant was guilty of no offense in refusing to submit to induction. In my opinion the denial of defendant of the status of a conscientious objector was so arbitrary and capricious that it is the duty of the trial judge to grant defendant's motion for a judgment of acquittal."

Attached to the opinion was the order clearing Bortlik of any criminal action. Bortlik was freed.

IN STROUDSBURG last night Attorney Maxwell Cohen said he "believed the case was the first in this area in which an acquittal had been granted in a lower court."

Some other cases, involving similar principles, had resulted in dismissal of criminal charges after appeals to a higher court, he said.

Cohen pointed specifically to the fact that Judge Watson's opinion reflected little on Strodsburg's local Selective Service Board (105).

Principally, Cohen noted, the judge had adhered to the errors made by the board of appeals and the Department of Justice in concluding that theocratic warfare included any and all wars.

"Defendant's positive and uncontradicted statement was that he was conscientiously opposed to participation in war because he regarded his duties to Jehovah as being paramount to any duties arising out of human relationships."

"Thus it is seen 'war in any form' was construed to include theocratic wars."

"However the court does not believe that Congress intended such an unconscionable interpretation to be placed on this phrase. War, as the term is commonly used, is a conflict by force between two or more nations; it is a conflict of violence by one politically organized body seeking to overcome or overthrow another political entity."

"IT IS PATENT that Congress was legislating in regard to this type of struggle and was not concerned with wars carried on by the command direction of God (theocratic wars)."

"It is clear that Congress intended by this section to exempt from service in the armed forces those persons who were conscientiously opposed by reason of religious training and belief to any form of participation in a flesh-and-blood conflict between nations."

WIND GAP — The experiment of storing oil in a slate quarry moved closer to the final test this week.

Engineers of the Tuscarora Pipe Line Co., a subsidiary of Esso Standard Oil Co., tested a six-inch-diameter line under 800-pounds-per-inch pressure. The line was tapped some 2,000 feet from the quarry.

Actually two slate quarries are being used in the imaginative experiment. The home heating oil will be pumped into Colonial Slate Co.'s Alpha quarry at the rate of 10,000 barrels a day.

Since Alpha has a capacity of about a million barrels, the hole won't be filled for about three months.

Colonial's Acme quarry will contain water.

Alpha will have about 100 feet of water at the bottom of it; then oil; then a roof, composed of steel pontoons floating on top of the oil.

When seasonal demand arrives, oil will be pumped out of Alpha and through a pipeline to New York metropolitan area.

Simultaneously more water will be pumped out of Acme and into Alpha, where it will replace the oil.

When Alpha is refilled with oil during the slack period, the water will be pumped back into Acme quarry.

Motion For New Trial In Eckley-Seese Case To Be Argued Before Court Today

MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL in connection with a traffic-death damage suit will be argued today in county court.

The death occurred in 1952, when Darel Eckley, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Eckley Jr., Kresgeville, fell from his parents' car while it was passing through Brodheadsville May 31. The lad was injured fatally.

The Eckleys filed suit against Travis Seese of East Strodsburg, driver of a car coming in the opposite direction. The Eckleys contended Darel was struck by the wheels of the Seese car.

IN A THREE-DAY jury trial in October 1953, the jury found for the Eckleys and awarded them a total of $8,127.77 in damages. Eckleys are represented by F. J. Mervine.

Heavy Influx Of Motorists Expected Here

END OF THE month changes in reservations at Pocono Mountains hotels this weekend are expected to bring one of the greatest traffic flows over the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission's Delaware Water Gap bridge since it opened.

Bridge Commission officials said yesterday that audited figures returned from the commission's main office at Morrisville, Pa., showed traffic for the July 16 to 19 period, both dates inclusive, was 3,800 vehicles higher than the same four days the previous weekend.

Showdown For "The Kids"

The $15,000 Eastburg Highlights and Festival of Showdown ticket sales campaign is at the celebrities stage. In ten days—August 8 to be exact—all sales of tickets will end absolutely.

There will be no public sale of tickets after that date, not even at the gate of the Memorial Stadium where the permanent light installations for night sports and civic events are now being installed.

During the next ten days the extravaganza of stage, screen, radio, TV and sports greats have the challenging responsibility of disposing of approximately $10,000 worth of tickets.

This challenge extends first to the merchants, other business people, industry and citizens of East Stroudsburg, then to people all over the Poconos who believe in the youth of today and youth of the future.

So many people—very busy people—of the Waring organization are giving so much of their time and talents "for the kids," and so many of their friends in the entertainment and professional sports field are giving their time and great artistry there should be no question about the problem of East Stroudsburg and Pocono-wide support. The great names who are already pledged to entertain on August 15, and those who will be added, are doing it "for the kids," strictly on the recommendation of key people in the Waring organization.

Do you realize all this time, all this array of talent, all of this work is done without a single penny of cost! It's free. And it's all "for the kids."

The August 15 Celebrities show in the Memorial Stadium—a three-hour extravaganza staged in all the color, glamor and perfection that only Tom Waring can achieve—is a show worth conservatively $25 in any city or community in the country, the experts assure us.

Tickets for the celebrities are $5. There are 3,000 of them. The total of $15,000 goes directly into the Varsity E stadium lights fund.

There is only one answer to the magnanimous gesture of the Waring organization "for the kids," as they put it. Here it is:

Don't be one of those who are not present at the great stadium lights benefit on August 15.

Welcome To Genevieve

As modest as she is brave, Genevieve de Galard-Tarabue, the heroine of Dien Bien Phu, is well started on her triumphal journey throughout the United States as the guest of the government.

Murmuring that she does not deserve the honors being heaped upon her because "I have only done my duty," the young French nurse, whose courageous performance during the siege of the beleaguered Indochinese stronghold commanded the admiration of the civilized world as correspondents told of her selfless determination to stand by the wounded men, accepted the tributes bemoaningly.

New York gave her the traditional ticker-tape welcome, and Washington took her to its heart when she visited there. Now she is to visit all sections of our country before returning to her native land, and we hope that she has a greater realization of our unbounded appreciation of her heroic performance in the last, sad days of the battle.

Without doubt, she will be better able to interpret the real United States to her fellow countrymen when she returns to France.

George Sokolsky Says...

Great Debate Over Atomic Power Really Test Of Status Of Economy Of Nation

The great debate over atomic power which frightened so many politicians is, in reality, a struggle over whether the economy of this country is to remain capitalistic, to become socialized, or to be what is sometimes called mixed. A better phrase would be mixed up.

Ultimately all power, light and heat for the United States ought to come from atomic fission. Into the production of this unit of industry, the Government of the United States has poured approximately $5,000,000,000 of the taxpayers' money. It can therefore be argued that this product of the Atomic Energy Commission is the property of the Government of the United States.

A little foresight, however, will undoubtedly frighten those who believe in capitalism because if the atomic energy industry is capable, at low cost, of providing power, light and heat, the coal and electricity industries will sooner or later go out of existence. This means that those who have invested their private earnings in these industries will suffer a loss due to competition by the Government of the United States, unless the Government purchases the plants and equipment. Those learned legislators who spoke of a "give away" would have been more correct had they used the term, "take away."

It can be said that new inventions make old industries obsolescent; that as new ideas and new methods prevail, they take the place of existing means of production and distribution, as the automobile replaced the horse and carriage. In the changeover from one type of production and distribution, private enterprise has some opportunity for readjustment. Those who owned railroad shares could purchase automobile company shares. Very few such enterprises are monopolies owned by single individuals, but represent a wide distribution of ownership which amounts to public participation in the risk for profit or loss.

Whatever the Government owns is a monopoly, held by the political power of the state. The combination of political and economic power, controlled by a bureaucracy that is impervious to the shifts in the elected echelons of government, leads inevitably to Fascism, which is the government control of both the political and economic power.

Capitalism is an economic system in which the individual is able to invest his surplus earnings in enterprise according to his private judgment and at his own risk. Capitalism in the United States has been modified by the tax system which limits the accumulation of the individual's earnings first by a graduated income tax and secondly by a graduated inheritance tax. The word, "graduated," is important because these taxes are so devised that all but those who possess inherited wealth or who are given exceptional deductions or who find means to evade the tax laws suffer from a roof on their end earnings; that is, take home-pay or profits after taxes are limited by law.

These limitations have not served to end the period of expansion of American industry, but there is a constant fear in this country that the reservoirs of privately-owned capital will decrease. Huge accumulations of private capital are held by the life insurance companies which are able to make loans for private enterprises. Also, loans to safe undertakings, some of which came into existence and expanded on government loans rather than by public participation in the enterprise. Some of these benefits went to private individuals; some were eventually developed into publicly-owned enterprises. In a word, the Government went into the banking business and is loaded down with partial ownership of numerous properties. Similarly, through the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Government is a huge owner of foods and materials which are taken off or put on the market for political reasons.

The TVA and some other enterprises are owned by the Government in competition with private companies producing power and light. Such government enterprises enjoy the advantage of not paying for the capital they use and of not paying taxes. The development of atomic energy for power and light as a government enterprise will eliminate private capital from this phase of industry altogether. It could mean that the basis of all production will be socialized. As every other industry is dependent upon light and power, all industry will, in a measure, be dependent upon the willingness of government to provide the product not competitively in the market but politically.

The Once Over

Port of Missing Men

He's been up in the Cape Ann country where we checked on John Kieran, a bird watcher, naturalist, author, human encyclopedia, field-glass toter, sports authority and most famed member of the sadly missed Information Please programs. Mr. Kieran disappeared from his Bronx and Gotham habitats recently. Nantucket has seen much of him, but he seemed to have landed with something approaching permanence at Rockport, Mass. Thoreau and the Red Sox are not far away. We found Jonathan's routine changed. Once he was up with the lark, woodsman's axe in hand, lashing at trees with something of the fury of Lincoln and just a touch of Bert Lahr. Now he can take a tree or leave it alone. We never had to hide behind a rock once for fear of his axe flying from his hand, accidentally or otherwise, this time.

What Do I Do, Mister, When He Gets Hungry Again?

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

More Interested In Greek iGrl's Plight Than Beauty

Didn't you feel kind of sorry for poor little Rika Dialina of Athens, Greece, who had her bags all packed to come to Long Beach, Calif., in order to compete in the "Miss Universe" contest, and then had to unpack them again because the American Embassy refused to issue her a visa?

Miss Dialina is some kind of an artist and it seems that a while ago she illustrated a book written by a Communist, which made her ineligible for an American visa under the McCarran Act—which, in the opinion of many, is driving things just a little too far.

However, I am not writing about Communism here. Certainly quite enough has been written about that already, and I am sure that much more will be written about it before it is driven out of this country.

If you have ever had any bedbugs in your house you know how hard it is to get rid of them, and how much insect powder it takes. I guess it's the same with Communism, the insect powder in this case being words.

No, what I wanted to write about is beauty contests. There used to be a time when I got quite a kick out of these contests. After all, to be a man, a pretty pair of legs, a gorgeous figure and the proper dimensions all around are certainly as pretty as a lovely sunset or a beautiful rose.

But, where we live, we see beautiful sunsets almost every evening, and we grow some of the loveliest roses you have ever seen. And would you believe it? We hardly look at the sunsets any more and the roses—well, we take the roses for granted and whenever visitors come and say "oh" and "ah" over our roses, we don't seem quite to share their enthusiasm any more.

I guess it's the same with legs and busts and hips. After you have seen a couple of hundred of them, they all look alike to you and you get kind of tired of them and wish for the invention of something new. So, when I saw the picture of that little Greek girl, Rika Dialina, in the paper with hardly anything on, I guess I should have admired her beauty rather than to have felt sorry for her, but—well, maybe I am getting old, but I was more interested in her plight than in her legs.

It may be, of course, that I am getting old. But I wonder whether you don't feel just about the same about these endless beauty contests in which all a girl's virtues seem to be measured in bulges and inches.

In Rome, Italy, two members of Parliament raised an awful ruckus about these beauty contests. One of them was 65 years old, the other 31, so their adverse opinion didn't have anything to do with age. Expositions of vanity and stupidity, they called them. "An offense of public morality," was another description. "An affront to the dignity and traditional decorum of our country," they continued. They referred particularly to two contests, one of which was for the "Queen of Cheese," and the other one for "Miss Inner Tube of 1954."

However, one of the Italian newspapers remarked, "Please, let us not lose our sense of humor."

Which, I suppose, is as good a criticism of beauty contests as any other.

Try and Stop Me

When Miss Billis, the enchanting miss who taught the kindergarten class, got engaged to the dashing principal—an event freely predicted by everybody at the school—she appeared in class sporting a magnificent sparkle on her finger. "Gosh!" exclaimed her favorite student, 5-year-old Jonathan. "Is that ring for real, Miss Billis?"

"It certainly is," she assured him. "It's a diamond." "Oh, yes," he conceded, "then let's see it squirt water."

Another poignant moment in the same class came when Miss Billis asked Jacqueline, "What do you expect to do when you get as big as your mommy?" The child answered promptly, "Diet."

Young Michael Hornblow, for his term composition, got off to a rousing start with his opening sentence. "Water," he began, "is a light colored liquid which turns dark when you wash it."

Robert S. Allen Reports

U.S. Has Investment In Ill-Fated British Comets

Washington — Britain's bad luck with its jet liners turns out to be a sort of family affair.

It's all very hush-hush. So much so that astonished U. S. authorities got their first inkling about the matter at a private meeting of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The Committee charged the British used a big chunk of military aid to develop their tragic airliner.

The sensational accusation is based on a secret investigation by Committee agents. They were sent to Britain to look into complaints from American plane makers that aid funds were being "diverted" to finance the Comets.

The staff's report confirmed these tips.

Foreign Aid Director Harold Stassen was confronted with this unpublished document when he conferred with the Committee about $85,000,000 for the British air force in the new military aid budget. The House had rejected this item, and Stassen urged the Senate Committee to restore it.

In reply, he was asked to explain Britain's secret use of such money to build jet airliners, to compete with U. S. planes.

Stassen insisted it was all news to him.

Note: The staff report, formally approved by the Committee, will be made public when the multi-billion dollar foreign aid appropriation bill is sent to the Senate.

What They Said — Senator Henry Dworshak (R., Ida.) tossed the first bombshell, asking whether Senator Everett Dirksen (R., Ill.) in some hefty links.

They appeared to be surprised at Stassen's surprise.

Following are highlights of this revealing discussion, from the unpublished transcript of the meeting.

Dworshak: "We have an extensive report by members of our staff which indicates that Britain diverted approximately $75,000,000 from these funds to develop commercial aircraft. Exactly to what extent are we subsidizing commercial aviation in Britain? I don't see how we can justify voting money to help Britain outdistance our own aviation industry, particularly in the new field of jet planes."

Stassen: "I have no information about that. I'll be very glad to get the report of your staff and have it analyzed to determine the basis of these charges."

Dworshak: "I believe you will find them well-founded. Our staff people made a very careful and thorough investigation. Their report covers 20 pages of findings."

Dirksen: "What I'd like to know is just why are we supporting the British air force at all?"

Stassen: "They have the third most powerful air force in the world. With all the strong we have in Britain, a big RAF is vital for U. S. security. We need British air power just as urgently as they need ours. This isn't a one-way street; they are contributing a great deal to our joint protection."

"In the form of our surplus agricultural commodities. That's how we're paying for it. The $85,000,000 will be used to buy American farm products which are then turned over to the British who use their own pound sterling to strengthen the RAF. That's how it works and I don't know a better way to build up our mutual defenses."

Intriguing Secret — Senator Wayne Morse is attracting a lot of fascinated medical attention.

The Oregon crusader's amazing feat of standing on his feet and talking steadily without interruption for more than 12 hours has brought him letters from doctors in various parts of the country. They want to know how he did it.

He has also been asked the same question by admiring colleagues in the bitter filibuster over the atomic revision bill.

Morse tells them his formula is simple: First he prepares himself by carefully dehydrating his body, also he eats several large steaks prior to talking. He did the latter every day throughout the protracted talkathon to maintain his strength.

"It's all a matter of care and will-power," Morse said. "If your heart's really in it, the mind will find a way."

During his last spectacular stint, the Oregonian almost got an unexpected recruit.

In the early morning hours, Senator Joe McCarthy suddenly wandered into the virtually empty Senate chamber. The Wisconsin had been absent throughout the long battle and he offered no explanation for this unexpected appearance. After observing the scene for a few minutes, he sauntered over to Morse and shook his hand.

"You're just in time," whispered Morse. "We need speakers against the bill and here's your chance to be on the right side. How about it, Joe?"

McCarthy shook his head dolefully.

"Can't do it," he said, "I got trouble with my eyes," he said hoarsely, pointing to them. "I've got to go to the hospital. Both of them are bothering me very bad."

With that, McCarthy departed as mysteriously as he had appeared.

Slow Down And Live Effective

—by H. G. Heller

Perspective is a basic essential at looking at any problem, no matter how large or small.

So application of perspective to the "Slow Down and Live" safety campaign, which The Daily Record and so many other media of the United States presses at every opportunity, discloses that there was a seven per cent reduction in traffic deaths over the latest major holiday—July 4th.

There are 24 states participating in the "Slow Down and Live" campaign — that means their law enforcement agencies, safety organizations, newspapers, radio and TV.

Seven of the participating states showed decreases in the number of deaths this year. They were Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, New York, Tennessee and Virginia.

Other states, Alabama, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Texas and West Virginia held even with the toll of a year ago.

The states of Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont and our own Pennsylvania reported increases.

The remarkable factor in the seven per cent reduction is bound up in the length of this year's holiday. This past July Fourth weekend covered a full three days. Last year's was listed officially as a two-day holiday.

Police officials figure the 1954 week-end offered 45 per cent greater exposure to traffic hazards in point of time than did last year's weekend.

Our confidence in the "Slow Down and Live" campaign is further bolstered by the fact that:

This is the second consecutive 1954 summer holiday during which the "Slow Down and Live" states showed reductions from the 1953 death figures.

During the Memorial Day weekend the reduction as experienced 16 per cent reduction as compared with last year.

Looking at the "Slow Down and Live" drive from full perspective—it is a proven aid in cutting down highway fatalities.

We recommend the idea to you with complete confidence.

The United States has almost 35 per cent of the total reserves of coal in the world and Russia has 23 per cent.

Can't do it," he said, "I got trouble with my eyes," he said hoarsely, pointing to them. "I've got to go to the hospital. Both of them are bothering me very bad."

With that, McCarthy departed as mysteriously as he had appeared.

Kicking the Gong Around: Cocaine, one of the most devastating drugs known to man, is back in the country! It's been almost impossible to get for 25 years and U. S. Narcotics Commissioner made it that way. Now, for the second time since he's been standing up to politics, it's slipping in from Peru and Java. The only places where it's produced. This is why the bureaucrats overrule Anslinger: Peru is dominated by a Communist movement and the striped reform boys say we can't offend them. It's against the Good Neighbor policy! Indonesia (that's Java) is the undercover spearhead of communism in South East Asia—a dagger aimed straight at Australia. Yet Anslinger can't get funds to cut off the flow of a drug far deadlier than opium, morphine and heroin (which come from Red China). Fortunately cocaine addicts are comparatively rare, it's so costly. However the Kremlin is planning a big boom for us. The drug completely destroys the body and soul. Those who use it end up as killers or worse.

Steel Industry Studies Use Of Anthracite

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representatives of major steel companies were described yesterday as "very receptive" at a government conference over a plan to use large quantities of anthracite to blend with coke in fueling steel blast furnaces.

The idea was advanced by the Bureau of Mines' Anthracite Industry Advisory Committee as a way of helping the hard-hit anthracite industry.

A full-scale discussion of the possibilities of the plan was held at a meeting of steel and anthracite industry leaders with Assistant Secretary of the Interior Felix Wormser and Bureau of Mines officials.

"THE MEETING WAS highly constructive," Wormser said. "It provided an illuminating and frank discussion of all the factors involved."

Anthracite was used by some steel mills in the coking process during the last world war when bituminous, or soft coal, was scarce for making coke.

Bureau of Mines officials said at the meeting yesterday that it appeared that a blend of 5 to 20 per cent of anthracite with coke would be economically feasible for the steel industry iron ore blast furnaces.

IT WAS CONCEDED, however, that only steel mills convenient from a transportation standpoint to the eastern Pennsylvania anthracite area could benefit. This would include the Pittsburgh area. "If anthracite can be used economically in a blend with coke," one mines bureau official said, "there would be quite a potential market for anthracite."

Navy Awards Ship Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two private shipyards yesterday lost a chance to get the contract for a fourth big aircraft carrier of the Forrestal class because the Navy said their bids were too high. The contract went to the New York Naval Shipyard at Brooklyn, N. Y.

At the same time the Navy announced contracts for two new atom-powered submarines, which will bring the total of such craft to four.

One will be built at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard at Kittery, Maine, thus giving the United States a second yard equipped and trained for that type of construction.

THE CONTRACT for a third A-powered submarine was awarded to the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp. at Groton, Conn., where the first two nuclear-powered subs, the Nautilus and the Seawolf, were built.

Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, has said other A-powered subs will be built.

In announcing the awards, Rear Adm. William D. Leggett, chief of the Bureau of Ships, gave no details of the cost and construction plans for the new 60,000-ton Forrestal-type carrier, but Rep. Wigglesworth (R-Mass.) said it would cost an estimated 12½ million dollars at the Brooklyn navy yard.

The private firms bidding for the job were the Quincy, Mass., yard of Bethlehem Steel Co., and the New York Shipbuilding Corp., of Camden, N. J.

BARBARA BROGAN, Brooklyn, N. Y., is spending her vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Grant Knowles, of Saylorsburg. Previously Barbara had been a "Fresh-Air" guest of the Knowles, but when the county could not get a sponsor, this did not bother Barbara, as she knew she had been with the Knowles for three summers. Barbara, now 12 years old, takes an active part in junior activities. She attends Mt. Eaton Sunday School and Church regularly, singing in the Junior choir. She belongs to the 4-H group also. Barbara plans to remain here until the latter part of August, and is making plans to come again next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bush and son Danforth, of Wind Gap, were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Faulstick. Other callers during the week were Mrs. Helen Smith and daughter Joyce, of Kresgeville, Mrs. Tacey Shupp, and Mr. A. No Decision On Arrest In Sheppard Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — The decision on whether to make an arrest in the Sheppard murder case was handed back, at least for the time being, to suburban Bay Village authorities yesterday.

After a 2½-hour conference of two county law enforcement officials, Prosecutor Frank T. Cullinan said: "The case is not in condition to be taken to the grand jury at this time."

Dr. Samuel Sheppard has been questioned extensively in the death of his 31-year-old pregnant wife, Marilyn, who was beaten to death in her bed July 4. He said he had no comment when informed the law officials were meeting at Cullinan's office.

RICHARD WAYGANDT, solicitor for the lakefront suburb, said he had complete authority on future action and would review evidence. He gave no indication on when or whether an arrest would be made.

Miss Susan Hayes, a 24-year-old hospital technician who once worked at the hospital and then moved to Los Angeles, has been quoted by Cullinan as admitting she had been intimate with the doctor.

Dr. Sheppard, testifying at the coroner's inquest, said his relationship with Miss Hayes had been only casual.

Passenger car inspection stickers will be in effect until the end of January and commercial stickers will be valid until Oct. 31.

Messner pointed out that the new inspection law governing commercial vehicle inspection goes into effect Sunday. Under the new law, commercial vehicles must be inspected between Aug. 1 and Oct. 31, 1954, with the stickers attached during that period being good until the end of April, 1955.

TIC CORPORATION

Off on an Hour's Vacation!

To be honest with you, we're not certain where he's going. He may be journeying to a branch office of his corporation . . . or he may be heading home for the day . . . or he may just be taking his afternoon "constitutional" behind the wheel.

But one thing we know for certain. He's about to embark on a little vacation. And for its length, it will be one of the most wonderful interludes a man could hope to enjoy.

For he's about to spend an hour in his 1954 Cadillac — and here, beyond any question, is the perfect remedy for a trying day.

It will bring him physical relaxation—for his Cadillac is so comfortable and luxurious that merely to sit in the driver's seat is to rest. And the car handles and steers with such complete effortless that every mile is a tonic for the body.

It will bring him mental refreshment—for the car is such a joy to drive and ride in that a man seems almost automatically to leave his cares at the curbside.

And it will bring him renewed enthusiasm and interest—for every moment a man spends with his Cadillac serves as a stimulating reminder of his past accomplishments—and acts as a wonderful inspiration for planning and thinking out the future.

All this, of course, is the very essence of Cadillac value. All cars offer transportation—and varying degrees of satisfaction. But it remains for Cadillac to provide a definite therapeutic for the mind and body of a work-weary man.

In this glorious respect, there are simply two types of cars: Cadillacs and all the others.

Come in sometime—when life has grown stale with the toil of the day—and take an hour's vacation in a 1954 Cadillac.

It will be the most refreshing sixty minutes you ever spent on the highway—and we'll be delighted to provide the car at any time!

Nerve gases shoot in fine spray through California orange trees. Applications are made at night when the air is still.

Cousins To War Nerve Gases Help Save American Crops

By ANDREW R. BOONE

Central Press Correspondent

RIVERSIDE, CALIF.—German nerve gases have been put to use undoubtedly never anticipated by their inventors—saving American crops. They are called systemic, and they work miracles never approached by ordinary insecticides.

Literally, you'd not call them war gases. Yet they are first cousins to the nerve gases the Germans were reportedly ready to throw at Allied soldiers when the war ended.

The insecticides, called thiophosphates, have been demonstrated dramatically by scientists at the University of California here to possess one especially unusual quality. They can move through the bark of a tree, through the plant's system and into the fruit and leaves.

Insects feeding on the fruit and leaves imbibe the stuff and die. Ordinary insecticides do not "translocate" in that manner.

Cotton is one of the important crops getting the nerve gas treatment. In a recent experiment two acres of a nerve gas, mixed with water and sprayed by plane, wiped out an infestation of mites and aphids on each acre of cotton in an Imperial valley field, near here. A host of other pests bit the dust, too.

Equally important, the cotton patch remained free of insects for several weeks. That means production costs were cut materially. This year more than 100,000 acres are getting the treatment in the southwest.

"THIS NEW control technique," says Dr. H. T. Reynolds, the entomologist who tackled cotton, "will benefit growers widely. Cleaner cotton will ease the job of mechanical picking, ginning and spinning."

Food crops are not getting the treatment yet. Although scientists are convinced there's no danger to consumers, they await the okay of the Pure Food and Drug administration and various state agencies. In tests on oranges, lemons and pears, not enough residue has been found to justify fears of its use. Fact is, these insecticides do not build up in the human body. Principal danger comes from careless handling in the field. The University of California experts are attacking all sorts of marauders that infest the fields. Nerve gas is only one.

RECENTLY one of their entomologists took off for Hong Kong, hoping to discover where one parasite, the golden chalcid, lays its male-producing eggs. Males are needed to help eradicate red scale, an insect that infests California's orange groves.

In the Riverside hatcheries the scientists produce millions of insects every year. These they loose in the groves to feed on various pests.

They're striking along several fronts by improving irrigation, pruning, fertilization, hitting at smog.

Recently one of the station's specialists discovered some citrus trees were dying from thirst. Sawdust mulch, spread around their trunks, largely solved the problem by holding moisture long enough for roots to absorb it.

However, they consider their biggest advance in the never-ending war on plant enemies to be the nerve gases. In coming years these peaceful offshoots of war-born killers will help improve crops everywhere in the nation.

His mother was the former Mae Elizabeth Kunkle of 36 South Green St., East Stroudsburg. Hubert was born on August 9, 1953, in Suburban Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Table Treatment

Is there a white spot or ring on your dining table? Don't despair, you can restore the finish! Mix an abrasive such as salt of powdered pumice with linseed, salad, mineral or machine oil so it is quite thin. Gently rub this mixture over the spot, using your fingers or a soft cloth. As soon as the spot disappears, wipe dry with a clean soft cloth, then rub with furniture polish or wax. If the white mark does not disappear, repeat the treatment.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Oh no! Not again! At least this my reaction to the announcement of Dior's new Fall and Winter line. The roaring 20's, they recall, with flattened busts and waists at hip level. We lived through it once, but it ruined the family album.

At the time when we could have been our prettiest, we looked our most ridiculous. Shovel hats with no hair showing, balbriggan sweaters that hung straight from shoulder to hip, butterfly skirts so brief that it hardly seemed worth while wearing them.

It's no wonder the younger generation goes into hysterics at the picture of our Washington trip. It would serve them right if they get pushed into the same cycle, but even for revenge I wouldn't wish that on them.

Styles have been ridiculous—as witness the bustle; they've been uncomfortable—as witness the wasp waist; they've been cumbersome, thinking back to bonnet skirts; but I doubt if they've ever before or since been so downright unbecoming.

And it's no good saying we won't—unless we say it in concert and good and loud. The "boyish bob," as we used to call it, captured all the teen-agers for the swimming season this Spring and is just now getting to the straggly, growing-out stage. The box jacket and the pencil-slim skirt has already captured the suit department.

However, when they get the high school and college crowd out of bobble socks, that's when I'll admit we're licked. And they'll look too silly slinking around with draped hips, and socks and loafers.

Though I doubt if looking silly has ever stopped men or women from following a fashion trend if it grows strong enough.

Dior's H-Line Recalls Styles Of Twenties

By Peggy Lamson

Paris (AP)—Fashion designer Christian Dior, who popularized the postwar "new look" set out today to do it again with a fall and winter line that denies feminine curves are where they used to be.

Dior's mannequins appeared as if they were ready for a big night back in the Roaring '20s. They had flattened busts, waistslines where you might expect hips and hardly a natural curve in the house.

If Dior's ideas win acceptance—and he drew loud applause at the showings—it will be pretty trying for women who lack the sleek figures of Dior's models.

He calls it his "H-line" because that is what the new form is supposed to resemble. It also might indicate "hips," because that is where the emphasis is. The few belts that appeared on the costumes were draped consistently at the hips.

Dior appears to have disregarded last year's unsuccessful attempt by former fashion empress Coco Chanel to stage a comeback with similar beanie-like figures. His styles—flat, boyish, slender, elongated and long-waisted—go even farther.

"The line," as fashion experts quickly dubbed it, looks less startling and more wearable in full flaring cocktail and dinner dresses.

One reassuring part of the changing fashion scene is the decision by Dior and other designers not to tinker with skirt lengths. They figure 17 inches from the floor is about right for hemlines.

For a summer lunch serve corned beef sandwiches with a salad of lettuce (or other greens) tomatoes and cucumber. To make the filling for the sandwiches, mix tiny cubes of corned beef with mayonnaise-type salad dressing and prepared horseradish.

Presbyterian Picnic Aug. 24 At Brainerd

The annual picnic of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church School will be held Tuesday, August 24, at Brainerd Center, Snyder'sville. Plans for the picnic were discussed at the meeting of the teachers and officers held at the church on Wednesday night.

There will be swimming, boating, games and the picnic supper featured at the annual outing, with special events for both adults and children.

Horace Westbrook, superintendent, presided at the meeting. Plans were also discussed for the annual Rally and Promotion Day to be held Sunday, September 26. The resignation of Martin Tow, who has taught in the intermediate department for many years, was accepted with expressions of appreciation for his faithful service.

Edward C. Hess, treasurer, reported that 14 young people from the church had attended camp at Brainerd this year, 12 intermediates and 2 seniors. George Wakefield, teacher of the Geneva Fellowship, suggested a plan whereby pupils could save toward their share of the camp expenses next year. The church school pays half of the camp expenses, and the Fellowship plans to prepare saving banks to be used by the pupils to save their personal share of expenses.

Eastern Star Card Party Well Attended

The Monroe Chapter, No. 96, Order of Eastern Star, held a mid-summer luncheon and card party yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clementine Croisdale in Cherry Valley.

There were about 50 members present for the luncheon served at 1:15.

The card party which followed lasted until about 5 o'clock. There were prizes for the winners and a lot of news to catch up on in this mid-summer meeting.

If Dollie Erdman doesn't feel like a neglected wife, it surely isn't the weather man's fault. He's done everything possible this summer to snub the head of our umbrella department. Dollie doesn't seem worried however—if it rains she sells her pretty long handled parasols, and if it doesn't, she sells lots of luggage. Right now though, even she would be in favor of seeding the clouds to see if a little of that strange you-know-what could be produced. . . . According to a very latest in baby care may be the "no-bathing" policy while infants are in the hospital. Babies abdomen will not be bound, dressings will not be applied to the navel, and he won't be cleaned by either water or oil—at least, this possibility is under consideration. After all, the argument is, when does a newborn baby get dirty? He's handled only under the most sterile conditions. These ideas may be endorsed by the American Medical Association, but I'm positive they'd never be accepted by Pearl Walter of our cosmetic department. Pearl is quite emphatic about baths—the more the merrier, in her opinion. She's right too. There is nothing more refreshing than a brisk tub bath, plus the fragrance of bath oil, a delicately scented soap and a good after-bath rub. But then, of course, what infant would care for such luxury? . . . Now that we're getting older, the girls who graduated in my class get together frequently to celebrate birthdays. (Or, maybe, to take the sting out of them!) We try to make them more exciting by presenting some glamorous gift that the recipient might not purchase for herself. It's a wonderful idea really, so why not borrow it for your crowd? At our party the other night, the gift was an exotic bottle of perfume, and I won't tell you the age of the honored guest. We graduated in '32, so figure it out for yourself. . . . Buttermilk, they tell me, is considered a cooling drink for summer—more so than ordinary milk and beverages. Whether or not this is true, it is definitely a treat, so why not have a glass at our fountain today? . . . And here's a secret, just between us. One of the prettiest young ladies at our fountain is being ribbed these days because she keeps at hand a bottle of Dr. Hand's teething lotion. Since she's too young to be entering second childhood, we assume it's her wisdom teeth that are troubling her. Frankly, I'm afraid to mention her name. I've been threatened! . . . The stamped table cloths in our Art Goods department are of such fine quality linen, I hope no one is overlooking them. I'm tempted to take one along on vacation since embroidery can be pretty relaxing. Wonder if I ever told you about our very small customer who stood with her mother at the Art Goods counter, looking over the pieces stamped for cross stitch. "Why," she demanded, "does that cloth have kisses all over it, Mommy? Do you know who put them there?" Come to think of it, if those marks really were kisses, they'd sell but fast, I betcha. . . . Don't forget that the tea for Olive P. Bond is this afternoon at 3 in our Tea Room, and you are invited. No charge, of course — so do come in to meet this very gifted artist. . . . I'm not sure when I've had a dress that received as many compliments as the flower-sprigged black cotton I'm wearing today. The price is too good to keep secret—just $8.95 in Mardee Wyckoff's department. Right now Mardee's the girl who can "cotton" to your taste if anyone can. Her dresses are as pretty and delectable as cotton candy. . . . And while you're in be sure to see our racks of stunning marked-down bathing suits. Even when you're "all wet" in these, you'll be beautiful.

Pocono Lions Clinch First Place Over Mount Pocono, 10-6

Pocono Pines—Pocono Lions clinched first place in the second half Pocono Little League flag race last night by administering a 10-6 licking to Mount Pocono Rotary.

Last night's activity was the final regular season game for both clubs. Pocono Lions and Mount Pocono, first half champions, will now meet in a three-game series to determine the seasonal championship.

The opening game of the series will be held on Monday, while a second will take place on Wednesday and if a third is necessary it will be held on Friday. The first tussle will be played here, while the second will take place at Mount Pocono. If a third is needed it will take place on a neutral field.

Outburst
Pocono broke up a close contest with a six-run outburst in the fifth inning, after the arch rivals battled through the first two innings to a 4-4 deadlock.

Both clubs were scoreless in the third and fourth, but Mount Pocono scored a singleton in the fifth, only to fall victim to six runs in the home half of the same frame. The losing contingent wound up its scoring with one marker in the sixth.

Pocono Lions banged out five hits, while Mount Pocono cracked four safeties. Monty Strong homered in a losing cause.

The winning club committed the only four errors of the game.

Manzi Stops Foster In Sixth

Syracuse, N. Y. (AP) — Pat Manzi, 150, Syracuse, stopped "Chuck" Foster, 147, Omaha, last night in one of the three feature bouts of a talent show at the Onondaga County War Memorial.

The referee refused to allow Foster to come out for the sixth round against Manzi because of a cut over Foster's left eye.

Cut
The cut was opened in the third round and bled profusely thereafter.

In the other co-feature bouts, all of which were listed for eight rounds, Joe Taylor, 159, Birmingham, outpointed Gordon Wallace, 161, Brantford, Ont., and Ernie Cab, 156½, New York, stopped Frank Cowen, 194, Waterville, in the third round.

Stroudsburg, Camp Miller Swimmers Deadlock

Shawnee-on-Delaware—Stroudsburg Playground and Camp Miller splashed to a pair of 16-16 deadlocks in swimming meets here in the Camp Miller pool yesterday.

Doug Shook opened the meet for 15-year-olds and under by winning the 25-yard crawl, while Bob Reddell and Henry Herensperger, both of Miller, came home second and third, respectively. Reddell registered a victory for Miller in the backstroke, with Shook second and Kieffer, Miller, third.

Shook won his second event by finishing first in the breaststroke, while teammate Bill Bolick was second. Dick Grote, Miller, crossed the finish line third. The Miller team of Reddell, Bob Gilfillan and Fisher won the medley relay race.

Youngsters
Dick Everitt gave Stroudsburg a win in the crawl event for 13-year-olds and under, while teammate Ed Granville finished second. Steve Durst, Miller, was third. Kieffer, Miller, was first in the backstroke, followed by

Tournament Title At Stake Today

Ted Getz Clothier, the club that came back from the brink of elimination to challenge for the title, threw the Monroe County Softball League tournament into a deadlock last night by earning a 3-2 victory over Kulp's Foundry.

The contest, delayed more than a half hour by rain, was played at Stroudsburg Playgroud. Getz's contingent lost the opening tournament contest but rallied for five straight wins to challenge for the title, Kulp's Foundry, winner of its first five tournament outings, suffered its initial loss last night. It takes two defeats to be eliminated from the current tournament.

The title will be decided on the same field tonight when the arch rivals shoot for the pot of gold beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Scoring
Kulp's banged the ball to all corners of the field in the early innings, but Henry "Hank" Stetler, who had a second frame and held Kulp's club in check the remainder of the distance.

The losing outfit broke the scoring ice with a singleton in the second, only to have Getz's club tie the count in the third.

Getz's Clothiers actually won the game with an outburst of two runs in the fifth, while the best Kulp's club could do in the closing innings was another singleton in the sixth.

Jack Newell, Getz's third baseman, came up with three brilliant fielding plays to help the cause, as Stetler limited Kulp's sluggers to four safeties. Getz's crew accounted for the same number of hits off Bob Heid.

Rain Postpones Little League Playoff

Action To Resume In First Today

Rain and wet grounds, a combination of which very little is known in this area, forced postponement of last night's District Four Little League championship playoff at East Stroudsburg. The game, featuring East Stroudsburg and Trescow, will be played today, beginning at 6 p.m.

Managers of both teams, meeting with Dr. Winston H. Fegley, district chairman, following the end of yesterday's action, agreed to take up action today from a point where it ended last night.

A hard shower, which struck East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg and missed many other sections of Monroe County, halted play after one Trescow batter had been retired in the bottom of the first.

East Stroudsburg, playing the role of visiting team in the District Four championship battle, had one runner on first base in the opening inning, as Bill Bond, number two in the batting order, drew a life on an infield error. Otherwise Mike Samec was in complete control of the inning, retiring Doug Dymond, Evan Reese and Jimmy Gerard, Eastburg pitcher, on strikes.

One Out
Samec, leadoff man for Trescow, bounced back to Gerard to open the home half of the second and was thrown out at first, Doug Metzgar making the putout.

A few drops of rain fell in the first half of the opening inning, but it began to rain hard with Samec at bat and play was halted as soon as the Trescow leadoff man was retired.

The shower lasted approximately 20 minutes and made the East Stroudsburg field too wet for further play.

Both teams are expected to stick with the same lineups tonight, as they battle for the district championship.

The winner of tonight's contest will meet District Three and that winner will clash with District One-District Two winner or the Northeastern Pennsylvania championship and a trip to Williamsport.

A capacity crowd was present for last night's encounter, but the people were sent racing for their cars by the rain.

A's Draw Little Support

Philadelphia (AP) — Philadelphia business and industry leaders have turned a cold shoulder to a drive to keep the Philadelphia Athletics in Philadelphia.

A report not yet released by the mayor's office was turned over to the city's chief executive yesterday informing him that efforts to stimulate attendance at A's games have encountered apathy and in some instances outright resistance from the public as well as from business leaders.

The report was prepared by three staff members of the mayor's committee to "Save the A's." It said that most leaders in Philadelphia business and industry have refused to accept membership in the committee or to work for it in any way.

Letters
Citizens were sent to 125 leading citizens asking them to head up subsidiary groups for the purpose of selling tickets to A's games. Not one favorable reply was received, the report said.

Their response, the report says, indicated there was little, if any point in trying to "Save the A's" without a general housecleaning of present management. Some said sarcastically that the campaign should have been entitled "Save the Macks" instead of "Save the A's."

Neither Roy Mack, executive vice president of the club, nor his brother, Earle, were available for comment on the latest of a series of developments.

Leo Benches Lockman

New York (AP) — Manager Leo Durocher benched first baseman "Whitey" Lockman after five innings of yesterday's New York-St. Louis game over Lockman's violent protests.

The action came when Lockman grabbed his glove and headed for first base after grounding out to end the fifth inning.

Comments
Press box observers commented that Lockman hadn't hustled much in running out the grounder.

Durocher waved Lockman back to the bench and the pair exchanged words in front of the Giant dugout. The first baseman tossed his glove into the air and went to the bench.

Neither man would discuss the incident after the game.

Marciano Agrees To Give Charles Another Crack At Crown Sometime In September

By Jack Hand
New York (AP) — "Rocky" Marciano, his eye cut completely healed, will give ex-champ Ezzard Charles another chance at his world heavyweight boxing title in a New York bout that probably will be held Wednesday, September 15, at Yankee Stadium.

Promoter Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club announced two tentative dates, September 15 at the stadium or Tuesday, September 21 at the Polo Grounds. However, Norris prefers the earlier date.

The bronzed champion, rested after a six-week vacation at Cape Cod and Grossinger, N. Y., was examined in Norris' office by Dr. Vincent Nardiello, acting as Marciano's personal physician, and Dr. Alexander Schiff of the New York State Athletic Commission. They found the cut, which required 10 stitches and an operation for removal of scar tissue after ter the June 17 bout, healed completely. Both pronounced the champion fit for action in September.

As in their rousing first bout, Marciano will get 40 per cent of all receipts and Charles 20 per cent. The price scale again will run from five dollars to $40.

Norris said the television question is "wide open" but it is believed there is very little chance of any home TV. Although September 15 is a Wednesday, the regular Wednesday night fights have been pre-empted by another sponsor for a special show on that date.

Al Weill, Marciano's manager, is expected to insist on another theater-television deal similar to the arrangement that added about $250,000 to the receipts of the first bout.

The June match attracted 47,585 fans and grossed $543,092.24 at the gate, not counting theater-

TV and $35,000 radio. Marciano got about $250,000 and Charles $125,000. Norris said he expected the rematch to draw "at least as much."

Marciano returned to Grossinger after the announcement and expects to start training right away. He will be back Tuesday for the official signing.

Charles and his managers were not present when Norris made the match. Tom Tannas, the ex-champ's co-manager, had agreed to terms previously.

Charles, the first man to get a third chance to win back the big title, is due to arrive Monday. He probably will train in the Catskills at Monticello, N. Y., where he worked before the first fight.

"I hope to do a little better than last time," said Marciano who won a unanimous decision in 15 rounds six weeks ago. "I was a little disappointed that I didn't drop him, at least once."

The June match attracted 47,585 fans and grossed $543,092.24 at the gate, not counting theater-

The Lions held the upper hand 6-1, at the end of two innings, but Rotary roared back with six rallies in the third to earn a 7-6 edge.

But the Lions weren't to be denied and they won with eight counters in the fourth, while the Rotary contingent scored once in its half of the same frame.

Ticket sales for the Eastburg Highlights and Festival of Celebrities show to be staged at Memorial Stadium on Sunday, August 15, is progressing satisfactorily, but not everyone is apparently giving as much effort to the campaign as his fellow worker. The sale will go over the top because some of the ticket salesmen are going far over their quotas, while their neighbors sleep in the sun. This drive must feature teamwork, second to none we have ever witnessed in the past.

This ticket drive now in the home stretch is actually a football game, with each committee being comparable to a team. Instead of letting the other fellow do the job, it seems only natural to this writer that each committee and individual would be only too anxious to outdo the other fellow. The fellow doing the best job may rest within himself knowing that he did everything possible to make the drive successful. He will also receive the nod from fellow residents for a job well done.

If tickets weren't in demand it might be another subject, but seldom does this writer step out of the office that someone doesn't ask where he can obtain one or more tickets for the affair. People are actually searching for tickets for the big three-hour show and the job of selling is mainly making tickets available to all concerned. This show is second to none ever held in this area and certainly is the greatest outdoor extravaganza ever held in the Pocono Mountains.

The ticket drive is approximately at the halfway mark, judging from a personal unofficial survey, and should go over the top before the August 8 deadline. There will be a change or two made in the current ticket plans, and undoubtedly the new setup will speed the sale of the five dollar tickets. There are those individuals who would enjoy seeing the current East Stroudsburg project fail, but I for one can inform you definitely that the affair will be a success, one of the greatest successes in the history of East Stroudsburg.

Too many people have given too much of their time, without pay or recognition, to allow the current drive to be a failure. It is a success at this point and will be even more successful as the August 8 deadline draws near. This is the type chance that every borough and school district waits a lifetime to receive and once in a lifetime occurrences are never failures. The show has to be a success with its outstanding list of participants and I am certain that the present ticket campaign will be equally successful.

This drive isn't for the adults, although they will benefit of course, but is primarily for boys and girls of the high school age. Band concerts, plays and other outdoor activities not related to sports will be a possibility. People of the area realize the importance of the drive and are willing to purchase one or more tickets. Now it is everyone's job to pitch in and sell tickets, not let just a few carry the weight of the campaign.

It might be a good idea at this time to offer special warning to those people waiting until the last minute to purchase tickets. Don't wait too long! The sale will definitely end on August 8 and no, I repeat, no tickets will be available after that date. It is quite possible that unless interested parties act quickly they will find themselves on the outside looking in. But anyone on the outside won't see what's going on, special steps are being taken along this line.

The good part about the entire setup is the fact that the show will appear better and better as the actual date nears. Additional stars will be added to the list and new acts will be forthcoming from time to time during the coming week. The entire situation adds up to teamwork.

Red Sox Crush Indians, 10-2

Cleveland (AP) — Jackie Jensen drove in six runs with two homers and a single yesterday as Boston's Red Sox thumped the league-leading Cleveland Indians, 10-2.

The loss, coupled with New York's victory over Chicago, cut the Tribe's lead to one-and-one-half games.

Ted Williams drove in the first two Sox runs with a first inning homer.

Jensen, next man up collected his 15th round tripper then.

His 16th came in the sixth after Jim Piersall singled and Williams walked.

Eleven Teams Enter Show Tug-Of-War Competition

Other Teams May Enter Next Week

ELEVEN TEAMS are now in the fold for the tug-of-war competition to be held as part of the Eastburg Highlights and Festival of Celebrities show at Memorial Stadium on Sunday, August 15.

Louis Lettler, chairman of the tug-of-war committee, announced last night that six new entries have joined the five teams that were in the fold as of late last week.

The new entries include Empire Box, Kulp's Foundry, Patterson-Kelley, International Boiler Works, Tru-Matic and Marsh's Foundry.

Ronson, Worthington Mower, Line Material, Lehigh Valley Co-op and Acme Hose Co. were the five clubs agreed to take part in the event as of last night.

Increase
The field may turn out to be even larger than the 12 announced as the goal when the program was in the planning stage.

Lettler pointed out that at least two more entries are expected in the field by next week. Two distinct possibilities at the present time are Stroudsburg Fire Department and Stroud Township firemen.

The tug-of-war competition will take place from time to time during the course of the three-hour show, with the losing teams being eliminated.

A huge trophy has been donated Harry Obitz, head golf pro at Shawnee Inn and Country Club.

Crimson Hose Obtain Mele

Baltimore (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles let veteran outfielder Sam Mele go to the Boston Red Sox for the $10,000 waiver price yesterday, amid indications there was more to the deal than met the eye.

"Mele is certainly worth more than $10,000," conceded Art Ehlers, Orioles general manager. He refused to elucidate, however.

Speculation
There was immediate speculation a delayed action part of the deal will come off in about two weeks, with Boston possibly sending a player to Baltimore. Mentioned in that connection were Billy Goodman, Boston utility man, and outfielders Karl Olson and Charlie Maxwell.

Mele came here from the Chicago White Sox just before the start of the season in a deal that gave the Sox Johnny Groth, fleet outfielder inherited by the Orioles from the old St. Louis Browns.

Bell Offers Sound Advice

Detroit (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League told the champion Detroit Lions that the press, radio and television "made celebrities of you football players and indirectly have increased your salaries."

Warning
"Every player has a duty to perform to cooperate with the press, radio and TV," Bell said. Bell, speaking Wednesday at the Lions' training camp in nearby Ypsilanti, also told them to watch their conduct on and off the field and warned them against association with known gamblers.

Senators Blank Orioles, 6-0

Baltimore (AP) — The Washington Senators chased Baltimore's rookie bonus left-hander Bill O'Dell off the mound in the initial inning of his first major league game yesterday, then coasted to a 6-0 triumph behind "Chuck" Stobbs' five-hit pitching.

Lead Attack
Washington's Ed Yost clouted a pair of doubles and Mickey Vernon contributed a two-bagger and a pair of singles to lead the 12-hit attack.

East Stroudsburg Burgess Declares Special Day For Show

Sunday, August 15, has been designated as "Stadium Day" by Jesse S. Flory, chief Burgess of East Stroudsburg. The announcement setting aside the special day was made yesterday by Flory.

"Stadium Day" is being celebrated with the gala Eastburg Highlights and Festival of Celebrities show, a three-hour program featuring some of the biggest names in show business and in the sports world.

The show is being held in an attempt to raise $15,000 for the permanent lighting system now being constructed at Memorial Stadium.

Flory yesterday urged everyone who can possibly attend the show to do so.

Progressive Step
"This is one of the most progressive steps taken by East Stroudsburg in recent years, and should receive the wholehearted support of every resident of East Stroudsburg," the chief Burgess stated.

"A permanent lighting system such as the one being constructed now is an aid to the school district and borough as well, and will benefit both the athlete and non-athlete, not to mention spectators," Flory added.

"Attending the program August 15 will also be a tribute to the many men who have been working for the past month at the stadium in an effort to finish much of the task left unfinished several years ago—and without a penny of pay. It's a must for us all and we owe it to ourselves," the chief Burgess concluded.

A total of 3,000 tickets was originally placed on sale, but the supply is rapidly dwindling and there will be absolutely no sale after Sunday, August 8. Tickets are selling for five dollars apiece.

Partial Cast
Jane Froman, internationally famous singing star, will headline the show. The cast also includes Sterling Holloway, Hollywood personality; Robert K. Christensen, New York boxing commissioner; Jimmy Braddock, former heavyweight boxing champion; Tommy Loughran, one of the greatest light heavyweights of all time; Joe Marine, Fred Waring vocalist; William Herrmann, famous gymnast; Ed Sullivan, president of the United States Soccer Football Association, and a host of others to be announced within the next few days.

Tickets may be purchased at Paul Lloyd's Sporting Goods Store, 123 Crystal St. and reservations may be made by telephoning the same store, Stroudsburg 3894. Reservations may also be made at night, up to 9 p.m., by telephoning Frank Lanterman at Stroudsburg 757.

Cubs Halt Uprising In Ninth Inning To Down Dodgers, 6-5

Brooklyn (AP) — Brooklyn's belated ninth inning rally fell one run short yesterday as relief pitcher Hal Jeffcoat came in with the bases loaded to dispose of pinch hitter George Shuba for the final out and preserve the Chicago Cubs' 6-5 victory.

The loss prevented the Dodgers from gaining on the first place New York Giants whose lead remained at two games. Trailing 6-4, the Dodgers used up four Chicago pitchers in the rally that produced one run.

Early Edge
The Cubs got an early 6-2 lead, made possible by "Hank" Sauer's 30th home run and Ernie Banks' 12th with two mates aboard. Erv Palica, making his first start at Ebbets Field since August 27, 1951, threw the go-ahead ball to Sauer following a base on balls to Ralph Kiner in the second. Palica walked both Kiner and Sauer in the fourth and was relieved by Clem Labine. Labine got two strikes on Banks before the rookie shortstop crashed one deep in the upper leftfield stands.

Meanwhile, Bob Rush managed to keep ahead all the way despite Gil Hodges' 27th homer and a pair of doubles by "Duke" Snider and "Sandy" Amoros in the fifth. A double by Amoros also produced a Dodger run in the first inning.

Braves Run Win Streak To Seven Games

Pittsburgh (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves came from behind on "Hank" Aaron's 12th homer to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3, running their winning streak to seven games and sweeping the three game series with the Bucs.

The Braves, trailing 3-2 in the ninth, evened it up on singles by Johnny Logan, Charley White and Bill Bruton, and sent starter Bob Friend to the showers.

Aaron's homer in the 10th over the leftfield scoreboard was followed by safeties by Andy Pafko and Johnny Logan. Del Crandall doubled down the leftfield line and Pafko came in with the insurance tally.

Pitchers
Warren Spahn, trying for his 10th win, left the mound in the seventh, to be followed by Ernie Johnson. Chet Nichols replaced him in the ninth and got credit for the win. Johnny Hetki was the loser.

Milwaukee opened the scoring in the first with a flurry of singles by Danny O'Connell, Ed Mathews, Aaron and Joe Adcock. O'Connell and Mathews scored.

The Bucs came back in the fifth with four singles of their own. Bob Hall, Friend and Curt Roberts safeties in 1-2-3 order. Hall scored when Eddie Pellagrini forced Roberts, Friend was out at home as Bob Skinner hit a bouncer to Mathews. Pellagrini tied up the game, coming in on a single by Frankie Thomas.

The Bucs added their third tally in the sixth. Jack Shepard, who had walked, was sacrificed to second, went to third as Spahn threw to center on a pick-off try, and scored after Hall fled to Bruton.

Raschi Stops Giants On Three Hits

New York (AP) — Vic Raschi, flashing the form of his great New York Yankee days, stopped the New York Giants cold yesterday when the St. Louis Cardinals staged a 14-hit assault on five pitchers for an 8-0 rout. The 35-year-old right-hander permitted only three hits for his third straight victory over the Giants and his second shutout.

Ray Jablonski, "Rip" Repulski and Bill Sarni paced the Cardinals' attack that shelled starter and loser Don Liddle from the mound in the fifth inning and continued against Allan Worthington, Al Corwin, Paul Giel and Alex Konikowski in that order.

Injury
Jablonski, back in the lineup after nursing a strained side for several days, delivered the most damaging blow, a three-run double with the bases loaded. The two-bagger came with one out in the fifth.

Worthington, just up from Minneapolis, finally stopped the uprising but not before Sarni and Repulski had put together successive singles to bring in Jablonski.

Sarni added two more singles, his final hit coming off Corwin in the eighth to chase in Stan Musial, who had walked. Repulski got his first RBI in the opening inning when a walk to leadoff batter Walby Moon and singles by "Red" Schoendienst, Sarni and Repulski gave the Cardinals a quick 2-0 lead.

The better you know America, the better the future looks!

Great changes are taking place in America today. And each one of these changes brings with it an equally great opportunity for all of us—businessmen and farmers, factory workers, office workers and housewives. Here are just a few of the changes that, directly or indirectly, will make your future brighter.

THE CHANGE: America's booming birth rate! Every day we add 11,000 new babies, enough in a month to populate a city the size of Richmond, Va.

THE OPPORTUNITY: Babies are good customers—for baby foods and safety pins right now, eventually for all products that make our factories hum.

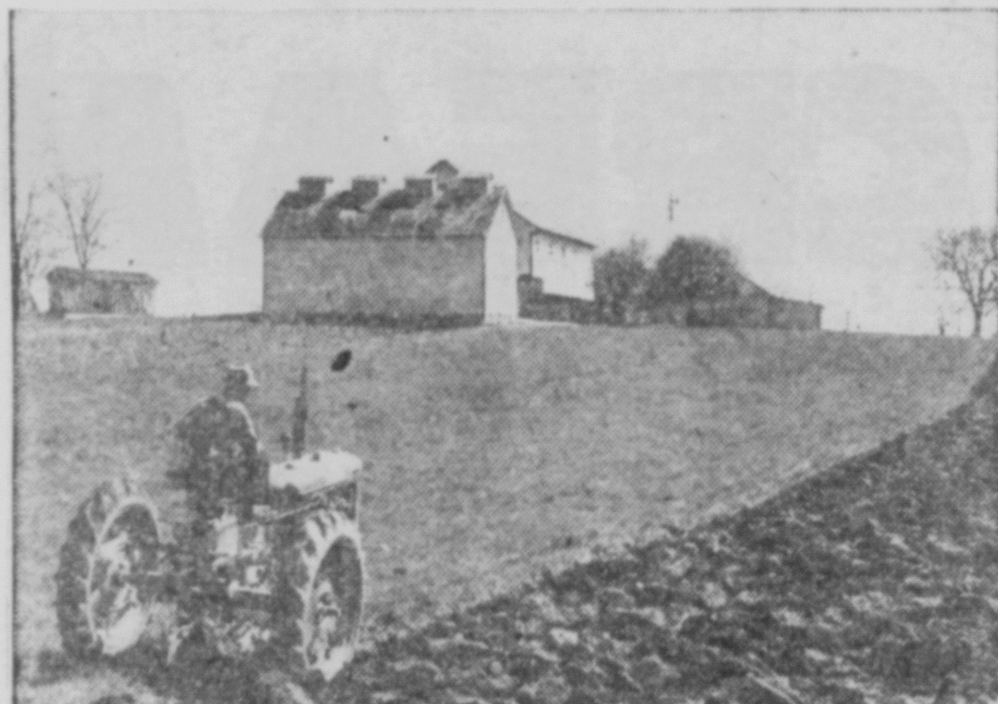

THE CHANGE: Even though employment in some areas has fallen off, we still have twenty million more jobs than we had in 1939. And the long-range trend is up.

THE OPPORTUNITY: A flow of purchasing power that keeps our economic machine running smoothly and steadily.

THE CHANGE: Nine times as many Americans now enjoy a $5,000-plus income as in 1941. Savings are at an all-time high.

THE OPPORTUNITY: Saved money is for spending—for homes and automobiles and washing machines and whatever else enterprising businessmen have to sell.

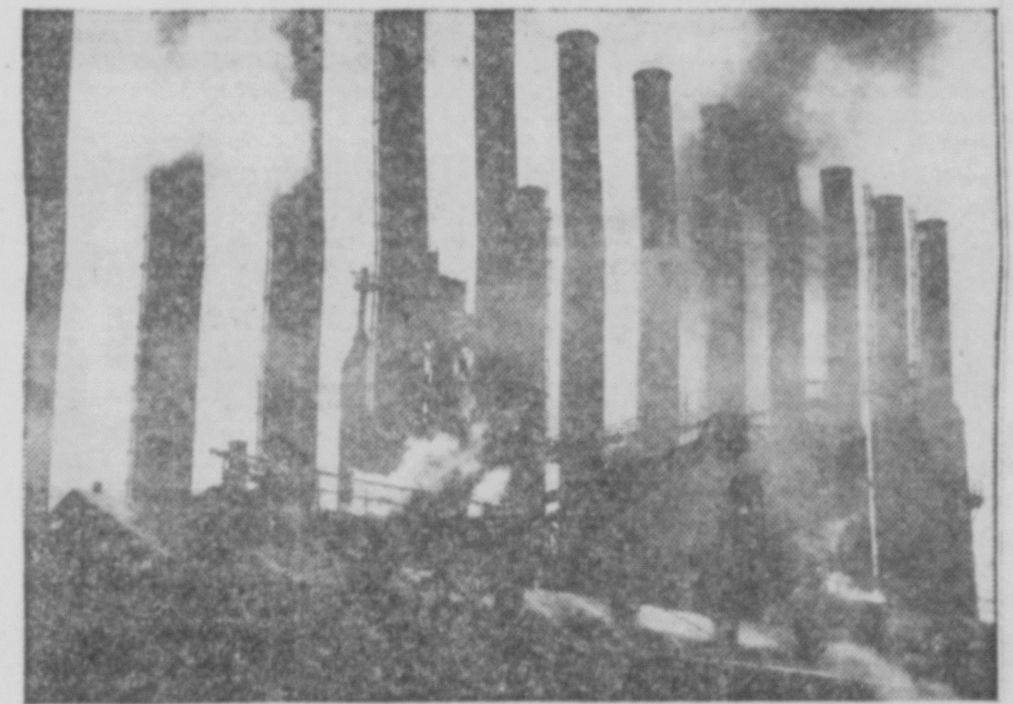

THE CHANGE: By rapidly mechanizing our farms, we have increased agricultural output 52% per man-hour since 1940.

THE OPPORTUNITY: Increased farm production makes the American farmer a better customer for all kinds of merchandise.

THE CHANGE: More and more of our young people attend high school and college; 2,377,000 are in college right now.

THE OPPORTUNITY: An intelligent, informed public is a great assurance of future prosperity and stability for any nation.

THE CHANGE: Our industrial genius increases America's factory output every year. Today, 98% of our work is done by machinery.

THE OPPORTUNITY: Increased productivity creates higher living standards and leads to more general prosperity.

THE CHANGE: More leisure. Forty million Americans get paid vacations, and they're not spending their free time in the old rocking chair.

THE OPPORTUNITY: More and more dollars for the hotel and transportation business, and for the sports, hobby and entertainment fields.

THE CHANGE: Our growing knowledge of atomic energy and how to harness it for constructive peacetime uses.

THE OPPORTUNITY: This opens up fabulous new fields. Sooner or later, atomic energy will run our farms, factories and mines.

THE CHANGE: Membership in religious congregations has increased at twice the rate of our population gains.

THE OPPORTUNITY: Our spiritual gains will help us to lead richer, fuller lives, and to make the best use of our material gains.

Is It Hot (Or Cool) And Dry Enough For You? World's Weather Unusually Unusual In 1954

By M. E. BYRNE
(Written Especially for Central Press and The Daily Record)

WEATHERWISE, this early summer of 1954 is just a crazy, mixed-up kld.

Unseasonable floods in the middle west, along the United States-Mexican border, and now in Central Europe; unseasonable cold and rain in England; unseasonable heat waves in the Soviet Union. So far, the summer of 1954

The huge ice chunks chill the sea water which cools the air, etc.—at least that's the theory.

In direct contrast, there's that heat wave which has been roasting most of Russia, generally associated in our minds as a land of bitterly cold winters and mild summers. Temperatures in the blistering upper 90s have been reported from such widely separated communities as Moscow, Stalingrad and Kubyshev.

TYPHOONS (the word derives from the Chinese 'tai fung', meaning "great wind") normally occur in the autumn in the Western Pacific. Now, to add to the confusing weather picture, already two typhoons have occurred, according to word from the Manila, P. I., weather bureau.

In the midst of all this aggravating weather let's not blame the weatherman for not tipping us off to what was coming. He does a fine job giving us the day-to-day forecast which so often saves us from unwise picnic-planning.

Weather forecasting, incidentally, has come a long way since old Aristotle the Greek wrote his Meteorologica back about 350 B. C.

Next greatest steps forward in meteorology was the invention of the thermometer by Galileo in 607 and the invention of the barometer by Torricelli in 1643.

THOUGH SPRING is the accepted season for floods, some record rises in streams have been registered since the vernal equinox, the worst being the overflow of the Danube river and its tributaries.

Called the worst in Central Europe's history for centuries the Danube flood has inundated entire towns and vast farmlands in Germany, Austria, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

Not so well-publicized is the truly brutal summer England has been experiencing this summer. Always fickle, weather conditions in the United Kingdom currently are downright cantankerous.

WITH SUNLESS day following sunless day in soggy monotony, England has been splashing through the wettest July in decades. It's also been the coldest July the island monarchy has shivered through in a long time.

England's present miserable weather is generally being blamed on two factors:

One—Failure of the high pressure belt, which annually moves from the Mediterranean area north to the British isles to do so on schedule this year.

Two—An unusual number of icebergs in the Atlantic this year.

IT WAS NONE other than Benjamin Franklin, that grand old American who was so great in many ways, who was the first to notice that weather moved. This happened in September of 1743 when Franklin noticed and reported that a storm he had experienced in Philadelphia was over Boston the following day.

The daily weather chart, so familiar to all of us, was devised by a German scientist, Heinrich Wilhelm Brandes, in 1820. Invention of the telegraph gave a great spurt to assembling of data for such weather forecasts and from 1850 daily telegraphic forecasts have been possible.

GETTING BACK to this summer with its strange cocktail of heat, cold, wet waves, it may seem odd to the layman but we have yet to see expert opinion expressed that the unusual atmospheric conditions have anything to do with recent atomic explosions.

The world is just having a spell of unusual weather — which is what weather usually turns out to be, doesn't it?

Investigation showed that a car "pulled out on Balliet forcing him auto across the divider strip."

They described the crash the most serious involving a state police car on the turnpike in 10 years. Balliet was en route to an emergency call. He was traveling between 65-70 miles an hour, state police said.

Engineers Building Vast Underground Garage In Chicago Must Put Park Back Together

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Correspondent

CHICAGO—The stage is near for engineers building this city's mammoth, 2,350-car underground lake-front parking garage to see if they can put together the pieces of Grant park which they so carefully dismantled, marked for identification, and stored away nearly two years ago.

It will involve an exacting feat of "putting Humpty-Dumpty back on the wall," but the whole project has required ingenious tricks. At one time last year famed Michigan boulevard, the main drag of the Windy City's "front door," was moved a hundred yards east while a portion of the garage was placed under the thoroughfare.

When the six-lane street was returned to its accustomed location, work began on the big excavation under the park. When completed late this year, the garage will surpass Los Angeles' famous underground garage for 2,000 cars beneath Pershing square, and become the world's largest parking facility of its kind.

TOTAL COST will be $2,500,000 financed by a public bond issue, and it is just one of eight big, off-street parking lots and garages Chicago is rushing to bolster its Loop and State street shopping centers against the competition of neighborhood shopping centers springing up in outlying areas.

Cars may be parked in the three underground levels either by the owners themselves or by attendants. Owner parking will be encouraged, and probably will cost 45 cents for the first hour as compared with 65 cents if the attendant places the car.

Elaborate driver surveys were conducted during the planning phase to determine whether owners could maneuver their cars among the myriad columns, and after several test setups were checked, it was found that a 23-foot distance between the pillars is ideal for the amateur operator.

THE ENTRANCES and exits are in the center of Michigan avenue, and will be radiant heated to prevent icing in cold weather. Lighting techniques used effectively by San Francisco and Los Angeles in pioneering underground garages have been borrowed to get away from that feeling of being "in the cellar."

To calm the opposition stirred by threatened disruption of one of the city's favorite downtown parks, the builders took 141 large elm trees and kept them for later transplanting, and with loving care marked the stones of the balustrades and foundations and preserved the statues.

Now the trick will be to put them back as nearly like they were before as possible. The engineers say it will be a cinch to do it, because they used the same general methods employed by the archaeologists who some years ago moved sections of an Egyptian temple complete to the Oriental Institute at the University of Chicago.

City Dump Yields Valuable Junk

SAGINAW, MICH. (AP)—Tommye Almond paid $853 for a year's salvage rights at the city dump. Almond owns four trucks and has a crew of six men working for him. He says the best money maker at the dump is scrap metal. It brings about $12 a ton. Old newspapers follow at about $7 a ton. Magazines sell for about 50 cents per 100 pounds.

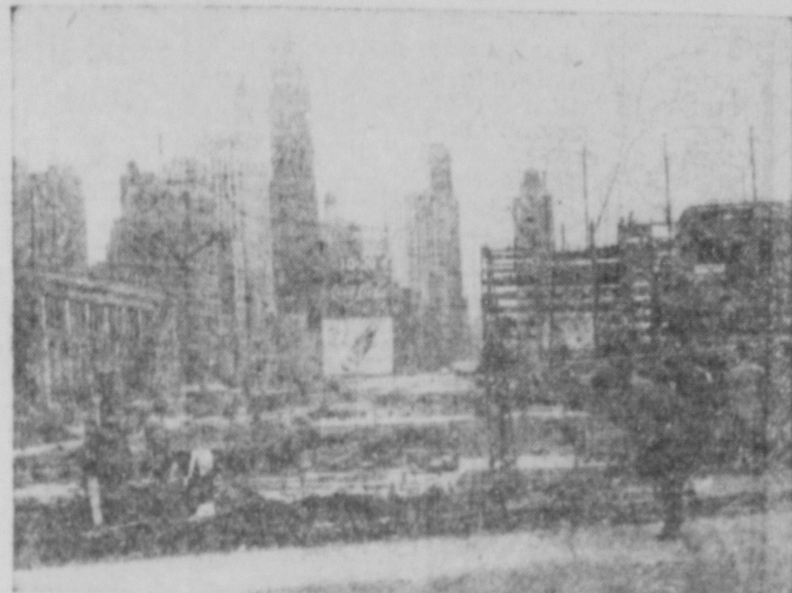

A salvage operator has one outstanding problem, he says—persons who believe that anything at the dump is free for the taking. Almond sometimes tangles with people on that score, but wins out when his identity is established.

Trick Driving Ends Abruptly

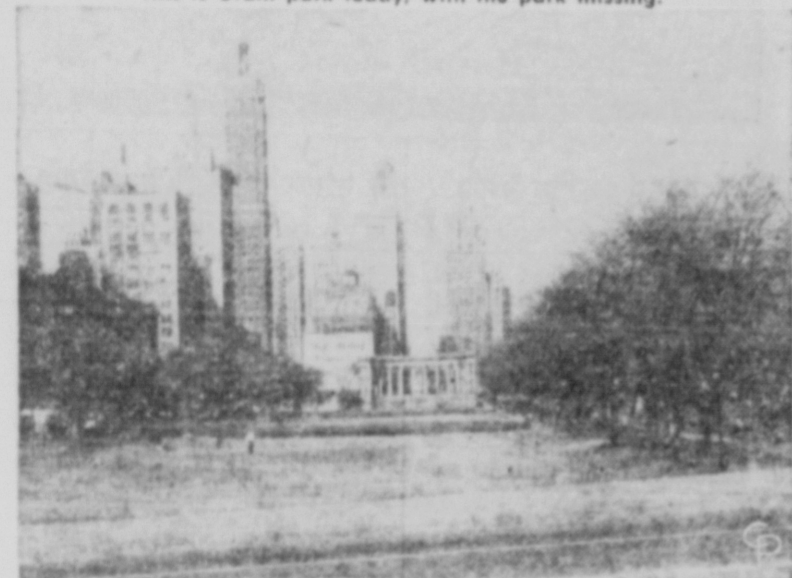

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Patrolman Neal Grover noticed a teen-ager driving down the street reading a comic book which lay on the steering wheel.

The boy stopped at the city's busiest intersection for a red light, then made a left turn on green with hardly a glance up from his book. Grover took the youth into Municipal Court.

The judge, fining him $5, told him to do his reading in the back seat.

This is Grant park today, with the park missing.

Wrong Wedding In Wrong City

DES MOINES (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Filby attended a wedding at Grace Methodist Church. They didn't recognize any of those attending and when the bride turned around after the ceremony, they didn't know her, either.

Back home, the Filbys checked the wedding invitation. It said the ceremony would be in Grace Methodist Church—but at Cedar Falls, Iowa, instead of Des Moines.

Rhee Fails To Consider All Angles

By J. M. Roberts Jr.
Associated Press News Analyst
AMERICAN comment on the congressional address of Syngman Rhee, the venerable Korean patriot, has let him off pretty lightly for suggesting that this country should back him and Chiang Kai-shek in a preventive war in the Far East.

He is a guest and widely respected for a life devoted to Korean independence. Also, it is quite probable that he struck a responsive chord in many a heart when he accused the Soviet Union of talking peace merely for the time being, until it considers itself prepared to launch an atomic war against the United States, and that recapture of Red China was the only way to change the balance of power into an effective deterrent.

NOT A FEW Americans, although unwilling to publicly advocate war, privately agree with him on one point. They believe the whole situation points to eventual war, just as all such situations have in the past, and that sooner or later the very nature of atomic war will require the Western world to strike first in self-defense.

There is much less acceptance even in this limited circle, however, of the Rhee thesis that China is the proper place to strike first.

For one thing, there is still the hope that time may produce changes in East-West relations.

AND MANY experienced observers of things Chinese still cherish the belief that there are natural forces which will eventually disrupt the Moscow-Peking axis.

And nearly all of those who can bring themselves to contemplate a preventive war would direct it against Russia rather than any of her appendages.

But what Rhee failed to realize, or chose to ignore in making his appeal, is that an overwhelming majority of American and other Western peoples don't want any war of any kind, and that there is something fundamental in the makeup of states which can practice democracy which prevents them from voluntarily adopting war as an extension of diplomacy. They must be forced into it.

IN THE ATOMIC era, it is quite possible they could be forced into it, forced to strike the first blow by rising tension, when the enemy's intentions have become too clear to be argued. But that time is not yet.

If it were possible for Rhee and Chiang Kai-shek to join the rest of so far free Asia in setting up a purely Asiatic defense system, they would be doing a far greater service to containment of Communism than they can by talking invasion of Red China. But unfortunately neither of them has shown, as Rhee did not show in his Washington speech, a sufficient conception of democracy to attract Indian and other Asian support. They are persona non grata to the very peoples to whom they should be looking for greatest support.

NO AMOUNT of material support from the West, no amount of sympathy for Rhee's position, could offset this, or provide any permanent solution of Asiatic problems.
